I left at 8:00 o'clock this morning for Marcel Boussac's place, Mi Voisin, about forty miles beyond Montargis. He has about 12,000 or 15,000 acres of land in the property, less than 100 miles from Paris.

We had lunch at 11:00 o'clock and four drives in the afternoon. That night, Madame Boussac, her sister, daughter, and son-in-law joined us for dinner, which was a superb gastronomic success. Everything served had been produced on the farm except the caviar.
